

NINITE ALLOWS APPLICATION INSTALLATIONS EN MASSE

Ninite makes loading a computer with new applications a breeze. Simply head to the Ninite website, select which programs you'd like to install on your PC—it offers dozens of options—and click Get Installer to receive a single, customized file containing the installers for those programs. Run the executable, and Ninite installs all of them in turn. No muss, no fuss, no hassle.

Unlike most applications, you start using Ninite before you even download it. Just go to Ninite.com and start ticking checkboxes for free applications you want to install on your computer. The catalog is rich, and includes perennial favorites such as Google Chrome and VLC, but also more obscure choices like the NVDA text-to-voice screen reader and WinMerge, a file comparison utility.

Once you're done checking all of the boxes for the applications you'd like to install, click the big Get Installer button at the bottom of the page. Your computer will then download a tiny installer, customized according to your software choices.

Run it and click "Yes" when Windows asks for Administrative permissions.
